Build, Translate, Convert

- Most men will focus on the “build” phase: physique, face, grooming, fashion
- But, they don’t know how to “translate” their physical attractiveness online through aesthetic photos & videos that women respond to
- Once they do, this is how you “convert” online attraction into dates, intimacy and relationships

Common Mistakes Men Make:

- They Hide Their Physique: Baggy Clothes, chest-up photos, poor lighting and awkward angles.
- They Go “Try Hard”: Shirtless mirror selfies, gym-flexing or shirtless with no context (often serving the male gaze)
- There’s No “Body To Lifestyle” Connection: Men don’t showcase their vibe, lifestyle while also leveraging their physique, subtly, all at once.

Your Photos Must Translate 4 Things:

- Face: Lean, clear skin, well-groomed, confident yet relaxed facial expression
- Frame: Physique, broad shoulders, confident posture, proportionate, strong arms, V-shape
- Style: Wearing clothes that fit, enhance your physique and overall physical presentation
- Context: Beach, city, training, travel, restaurants, lifestyle, activity

The goal is to make your physique part of your attraction signal.

I guess another update is, I got 2 new additional inbound likes this morning. And I've also tried to send a higher volume of outbound likes within the 15-20 mins span, and I've also tried to be picky just a little bit to show the algorithm what I actually like as far as types of girls.

Hey Jordan, sorry for the late reply. I've been busy working customers and trying to get some deals done.

Since we last talked, I've gotten 3 more inbound likes (headshot, "mischievous smile, brown eyes" prompt, and fireplace picture) plus 2 matches from sticking to 15 minutes of swiping a day.

I've been focusing on the two things we discussed: not coming on too strong early and using more soft closes. The date with [redacted] is still on for Monday.

The only profile change I've made was replacing the "making me blush" prompt with "Two Truths and a Lie."
